

Tamera P. Jones is passionate about helping ambitious women to master their money and maximize their bank accounts for savings, investment, and ownership. Tamera spent many years working with C-suite executives at Fortune 500 Companies. She took the "leap of faith" to leave the safety and security of her good corporate job and decided to follow her own vision and dreams to become an entrepreneur and live life on her own terms.

Helping women to become economically empowered and live financially free is her passion and mission. She believes women not only have the power to make good money, but master the money they make and live a lifestyle that exemplifies true freedom, personal wealth, impact, and contribution.

Tamera has gained a solid foundational background in business and finance through an 11+ year career in various Business, Financial, and Joint Venture Analyst roles as well as an entrepreneurial career that spans 10+ years in both direct sales and building her own personal brand. She is the Managing Partner at TPJ World LLC, a financial coaching and consulting company, and Founder of the BUILDMYBANK™ Signature Program, a 4-phase money activation and success system.

Tamera achieved distinct honors from NCCU, earning a bachelor's degree in Business Administration and Finance. She is a trained Financial Coach, Board Certified Credit Consultant, and Certified Credit Score Consultant.

Armed with real-life experience, tools, and a "no-holds barred" drive she is an inspiring voice that helps women confidently share and step up to have greater clarity, control, confidence, and security with money to live a lifestyle of freedom and flexibility that aligns with one's values. Her goal is to help you navigate a healthy money path to prosperous living and giving!
