

AshT speaker Bio

Ashley T. Taylor is a performer, entrepreneur, creator, teacher, speaker, wife and mother. She was born with rhythm in her heart and determination in her mind. She has studied performing Arts at Montclair State University and Rowan University. She obtained a Bachelor's degree in Writing Arts and her Masters degree in Arts Administration at Rowan University.

She fell in love with dance, then fell in love with the Arts. It is her desire to be an asset to her community. She recently opened a performance art training & event center called CreativeMotion Arts Center. The mission is to help others find joy in their Art. CreativeMotion isn't simply a dance studio; it is a Performance Art Instructional center where a multitude of artistic talents can be discovered, developed and nurtured. She also has a love for empowering entrepreneurs. Hosting small business expo events and entrepreneur development workshops to empower entrepreneurs is a heartfelt venture for her.

As a speaker Ashley is "The Faith Pusher" encouraging audiences to choose Faith NOT Fear! Her Internet series on Faith is a youthful take on How to live a Faith Lead life. Faith living is how she has made it through the ups and downs of life and now She is coaching others on how to do it too! She believes, "We are Blessed to be a Blessing" so she will always be a giver in any way that she can. Speaking to audiences about the methods she used to go from employee to entrepreneur, her life experiences with trials and triumphs and empowering entrepreneurs to go after they're heart's true desire allows her the opportunity to enhance the lives of many.
