

Kellee Fearon is a corporate leader with an entrepreneurial mind. She manages a multi-volume business as a Rare Disease Regional Manager in the Biotech industry with 9 direct reports. She has a documented successful track record in building highly productive teams. Former positions include, Performance Coach, District Manager, Human Resources Business Partner, and Manager of Learning and Development. Kellee's leadership style is transformational, always focused on motivating employees, and enhancing productivity through visibility. She is focused on skill development and performance management. She has a proven track record in strategic execution, leadership, organizational culture, change management and team building.

She holds multiple certifications including Women in Business and Leadership from Wharton. She is currently enrolled in the Urban Leadership Forum program, culminating in May 2021, with a youth leadership summit. Kellee is also a member of the inaugural one year leadership training for HERO's journey with Darren Hardy, December 2021. She is a member of the Healthcare Women's Business Association, and is launching the Diversity and Inclusion group for three specialty Sales Divisions within her company. Some of the efforts include speaking at the Black MBA Association; recruitment and selection with some of the top HCBU's, and mentorship for people of color new into the Pharmaceutical-Biotech industry.

Her biggest joy is helping others. She is a mentor to new corporate recruits with emphasis on professional development, leadership, branding, and career advancement. Kellee and her husband continue to work with young men of color in track and field while simultaneously supporting their efforts to pursue higher education. "When we give cheerfully and accept gratefully, everyone is blessed", Maya Angelou.